ENROUTE TO COUNTY HOME

Clark Anthony Killed by a Train Last Night.

HAPPENED ABOUT EIGHT O'CLOCK

Struck by the Out-Going Winston Train—No Blame Attached to the Railroad Authorities.

Last night about dark D. M. Quate was walking along the Southern railroad track going in the direction of the coal chute. When just at the point where that road crosses over the C. F. & Y. V. road he met an old man, apparently about 60 years of age, who was walking in the direction of the depot with a bag of what appeared to be clothing strapped over his shoulders and in one hand he carried a smaller bag.

Mr. Quate says the old man appeared to be quite feeble. He enquired of Mr. Quate the distance to the county home and was told that it was about three miles. He said he was on his way there and had a letter from the county commissioners for his admission to the home.

He started on and was then quite near the crossing. The Southern at this point goes over the C. F. & Y. V. road on a short trestle, and Mr. Quate cautioned him to look out for trains as it was dangerous to walk on the track. Mr. Quate says he walked on a little distance and hearing a train coming looked back and saw the Winston train near the trestle and the old man was standing on the end of a sill or on some of the masonry.

Just as Mr. Quate looked back the engineer gave the danger signal, the engine was then in a few feet of the old man, who was on the left and opposite side of the track from the engineer. The cross piece extending across in front of the cylinders struck the old man and hurled him down the cut onto the C. F. & Y. V. track.

The engineer had already, simultaneously with the danger signal, applied the air brakes and the train was stopped just as the engine crossed the trestle.

The body was picked up from the track below, physicians summoned, but to no purpose. The old man died in a few minutes. The body has been turned over to the county authorities for burial.

Examination revealed the name of the dead man as Clark Anthony. He had lived near Thomasville and had in his pocket a certificate for admission to the county home, to which place the old and feeble man was wending his weary way when his life met such a sudden ending.

No blame attaches to the trainmen for this tragedy. Mr. Quate says he thinks the engineer gave the alarm and applied brakes as soon as it was possible for him to have seen there was danger, and that the brakes were put on with such force that the train was stopped remarkably quick. The body was placed on the same train and carried to the depot where it was turned over to the authorities.

A Captured Flag.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM. Washington, July 18.—The Spanish flag captured at Juragua, Cuba, by Company B. Twenty-second regular infantry, has been received at the Adjutant General's office.

OLD GLORY IN CUBAN BREEZE

Americans in Actual Possession of Santiago.

THE JOB IS AT LAST COMPLETE.

The Mines Exploded—The Harbor Entered By American Boats. Dining With Spaniards.

By Cable to THE TELEGRAM.

Santiago, July 17, via Playa del Este.—The city was formally surrendered at nine o'clock this morning. Generals Shafter, Wheeler, Lawton, Ludlow, Ames and Kerk, with eighty officers of lower rank were escorted by a squadron of cavalry and a regiment of infantry and met the Governor, Major, Chief of Police and the Archbishop of Santiago on the public square fronting the cathedral and at that hour the formalities of turning over the city to the Americans took place. The Cubans were not officially represented.

The Red Cross steamship State of Texas, carrying supplies, with Clara Barton aboard, entered the harbor immediately after the Spanish gunboat Alvarez, which was surrendered to the Americans, steamed out of the harbor flying the American flag. Twelve smaller vessels were also surrendered.

The Cuban flag waved over Socopa Castle a few minutes, but was quickly lowered for the American colors. Morro Castle and the batteries in the vicinity are wrecked as a result of the bombardment by the fleet.

American and Spanish troops are hibernating on the hillsides surrounding the city. General Shafter and the commanding officers were given dinner today by the Spaniards. There was plenty of wine but a notable scarcity of eatables. There is great destitution in the city.

It is reported that during the ceremonies General Shafter ordered the arrest of Sylvester Scoville, the New York World correspondent.

SHAFTER'S OFFICIAL MESSAGE. Washington, July 17.—The war department posted the following bulletin at 5:15 p. m.:

"Santiago de Cuba, July 17. "Adjutant General United States, Washington:

"I have the honor to announce that the American flag has been this instant, 12 o'clock, hoisted over the house of the civil governor in Santiago. An immense concourse of people was present.

"A squadron of cavalry and a regiment of infantry presented arms and the band played national airs. A light battery fired a salute of 21 guns. Perfect order is being maintained by the municipal government. The distress is very great, but little sickness in town. Scarcely any yellow fever. A small gun-boat and about 100 seamen left by Cervera have surrendered. The obstructions are being removed from the mouth of the harbor.

"Upon coming in the city I discovered a perfect entanglement of defenses. Fighting as the Spaniards did the first day, it would have cost 5,000 lives to have taken it. Battalions of Spanish troops have been depositing arms since daylight in the armory, over which I have guards. General Toral formally surrendered the plaza and all stores at 9 a. m.

[Signed] "W. R. Shafter, "Major General."

THE HARBOR ENTERED.

Santiago Harbor, July 18.—Almost immediately after the Spanish flag was hauled down from Morro Castle yesterday steam launches commanded by Hobson and Palmer entered the harbor, penetrating to the firing stations of submarine mines. The mines were all exploded under the supervision of the Vixen. It was observed that two mines had previously been exploded at the entrance of the harbor, but it is not thought probable this was in any way connected with the sinking of the Merrimac.

SPANIARD'S BURNING LIGHTHOUSES.

Key West, July 18.—Spanish lighthouse keepers at Cape May and Cape Lucera have burned the lighthouses in protest against the act of capitulation signed by General Toral.

The Spanish garrison at Guantanamo have spiked all cannon and exploded all magazines. The gunboat Machias, which arrived here this morning, reports having seen the Cape May lighthouse and two others in flames.

The harbor of Neuva, containing a Spanish gunboat and the steamer Humberto Rodriguez, is blockaded by the Badger. Rough Riders from Lagunillas arrived this morning on the steamer So-lace.

TEMPERANCE UNION MEETING.

Held Last Night at Centenary Church.—The Speakers.

Last night the first of a series of temperance union meetings was held at Centenary church. A choir composed of members of the different church choirs of South Greensboro had specially prepared music, the chief feature of which was a beautiful and touching solo by Miss Weatherly.

The speakers were Mr. Walter Mendenhall and Mr. J. Norman Wills. Mr. Wills' subject was "A Business Man's View of Temperance," and he discussed it in a masterly manner. Mr. Wills has studied the subject, as all who heard him last night were convinced. He showed by his argument that, viewing it from a cold-blooded business standpoint—leaving out the tears and sighs and heartaches and pinched and wan faces of widows and orphans and wives who have drunken, worthless husbands, and the great number of men who annually go down to a drunkard's grave and a drunkard's hell—thesaloon does not pay.

After the speaking several new members were added to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of South Greensboro.

We understand other similar meetings will be held in the near future.

A Costly Bargain.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM. Washington, July 18.—The expense of sending the Spanish troops back to Spain will foot up over one million dollars. The cost of food alone will amount to four thousand dollars a day and the trip will probably occupy 15 days.

PORTO RICAN EXPEDITION.

Preparations are Being Vigorously Pushed.

FORWARD MOVEMENT EXPECTED

It is Conceded that the Movement on Porto Rico Should be Made Without Delay.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, July 18.—Gen. Brooke was in conference with Secretary Alger and Adjutant General Corbin this morning regarding the Porto Rican expedition.

General Miles cables from Santiago that he already has four batteries aboard transports ready to sail for Porto Rico.

The Fifth, Eleventh and Nineteenth infantry, light batteries C and M of the Seventh artillery, and also eight heavy batteries with mortars have been ordered to prepare for the expedition.

Preparations are being pushed with all possible haste. It is the intention of General Brooke and Adjutant General Corbin to start the campaign before the end of the week.

PREPARED TO START.

Chattanooga, July 18.—The First Army Corps is prepared to start for Charleston and other points for embarkation for the advance on Porto Rico. Army officials say the entire corps will probably not go on the expedition.

General Brooke is anxious to take the entire command, but it is probable that only a part will be taken and the rest of the expedition will be made up from troops already in the South who are nearer the scene of action.

General Brooke will return on Wednesday from Washington, when a forward movement is expected. General Haine's brigade is now under orders to move to Charleston for embarkation. Shipment will begin today.

CIGARETTE MONEY.

The great hue and cry raised in some quarters about Trinity College and Uncle Wash Duke's cigarette money is getting tiresome. Is it all strictly honest and sincere, anyhow? Is not Trinity College and not the cigarette money the thing attacked? If not, why is not the gift of the Duke's to the orphan asylum condemned in like manner? Why is all the abuse and criticism heaped on the gifts to Trinity? If it is not wrong to raise orphans on cigarette money, why is it wrong to educate young men on it?

If it is wrong to educate young men on cigarette money why is it not wrong to educate the boys and girls in our graded schools on liquor license money, and why is there not a great wail of distress raised about it? If Uncle Wash's cigarette money is not fit to pay the bills for the education of young men, why should a liquor dealer's son be admitted to a college and pay his bills out of the drawer behind the bar? If it is "blood money" and dangerous to the institution, why is it not dangerous everywhere else and why is it not so condemned?

There is a good deal of rot in all this tirade of abuse and criticism. Why not, to say the least of it, take the view once taken and expressed by Rev. John Tillett, that consecrated man of God, who felt it his duty to denounce the liquor traffic, which he did in strong and vigorous terms. It is related of him that in one town where he was particularly severe on the liquor traffic a barkeeper approached him on the street one day and handing him a five dollar note, said: "Mr. Tillett, allow me to make you a present of this five dollar bill; and, I want you to know that I made it by selling liquor."

He evidently thought he had a good joke on the preacher, but Uncle Tillett was equal to the emergency. As he folded up the bill he quietly remarked: "All right, I'll take it and put it to a good use; the devil has had it long enough."

THE BOOK CONCERN AGAIN.

The payment of the claim of the Methodist Publishing House by the U. S. Congress and the methods employed to secure its payment have been much discussed topics in the papers of late. In some instances the printed "facts" were wide of the true facts in the case. The investigation has been held by the congressional committee and the Methodist church stands unscathed. We clip below an extract from a letter by Rev. N. H. D. Wilson, published in yesterday's News and Observer. Mr. Wilson takes exactly the same position that this writer took in an article in this paper several weeks ago. The goody-goodies hold up their hands in holy horror at the "lobbyist" idea. It is the custom, and why is it so? Is it a reflection on the church that lobbying had to be resorted to?

Congress needs to investigate itself. If lobbying is wrong then congress should pay no attention to the lobbyist and he should be expelled from the corridors of the national capitol. It is a reflection on the nation's representatives when a just claim can no longer be paid without the aid of a professional lobbyist.

Following is the extract from Mr. Wilson's letter:

After many years of expensive and fruitless effort to secure our due, the Book Concern made a contingent contract with one of the best lawyers in the land for 35 per cent. he to bear all expenses and take all risks, but with the explicit understanding that he use no method which was not honorable and just. After three years of residence in Washington, much labor, and skillful management, without the use of one penny in any corrupt or dishonest manner, he secured the payment of the claim. According to the report of the Senate committee absolutely no blame attaches for anything to the church, and none to the book agents or the attorney except with reference to correspondence and telegrams passed concerning the fee to be paid Attorney Stahlman.

However, back of most of the criticisms lies the idea that the authorities were culpable for employing a "lobbyist" at all or at any rate for paying him $100,000. I submit that lobbying is necessary to the passage of the most righteous claim, that it is universally customary, and that where guarded as it was in this case—barring statements as to fee—it is no ground for blame to the claimant. Alas! that I cannot say that its necessity is no ground of impeachment of the honesty of our government, and of the fidelity of its legislators. As to the price paid the per cent. was not unusually large; wasn't according to the judgment of the authorities of the church, too large; and the claim being a debt and not a gift the per cent was none of the business of the Senate of the United States, of the press, of any one else except of the church. The book committee, composed of many of the truest and best men of our church, the committee of the general conference and the general conference, do not think the contract of its agents was a foolish one. To his own master the servant standeth or falleth. But what business man having a war claim against the government, due thirty years, unpaid after his most vigorous efforts, already a source of much expense to him, would not have paid 35, 40 or 50 per cent. for its collection?

A ROMANCE OF WAR.

The Scene Laid Near Smithfield Johnston County.

When the struggle at arms between the North and South was nearing the end—when, in fact, the end was but a few weeks off—Johnston's army encamped in the neighborhood of Smithfield, in Johnston county, N. C. When it became known that the Federal troops would invade the country thereabouts to engage the Confederates, the fact gave much anxiety to the Widow Mitchener, a beautiful young woman whose splendid estate and chests of plate would have been coveted booty for the conquering army. The house—it was a "mansion" in those days—stood about two miles south by southeast of Smithfield. It was an imposing structure, colonial in style, with great columns and the double porch that was a feature of the more pretentious architecture of those days. It was one of the most notable houses of the whole country side, and had for years been the scene of many a gay assemblage of the belles and beaux of the county. It is related that when its builder, Agrippa Mitchener, had his housewarming there was a celebration that lasted three days and nights. A band was brought from Goldsboro and the entertainment was of such elaborate character that it was for years looked back to as a great event in the country's social history.

Such, then, was the place of which the Widow Mitchener was mistress at the time the events here related took place. Fearing that the Federals would confiscate all her valuables, Mrs. Mitchener appealed to the confederates to aid her in the dilemma. The request was granted and a detail of 12 men, under command of Lieutenant J. C. Carter, of a Georgia company, was ordered to protect the property. They pitched tents and remained there for some weeks. After a consultation it was decided that the best thing to be done was to hide the money, jewels and silver where the eyes of the soldiers of the hostile army would not be likely to discover them. But how? The details were left to Lieutenant Carter, and the result showed how thoroughly the work was done. The secret was confined only to the detail, it being thought inadvisable to entrust it to the servants.

Selecting a favorable night, Lieut.

Carter and his men dug a hole in an obscure part of the barn, each shovelful of earth being deposited upon a blanket that there might be no trace left for prying eyes. The men conveyed thither all the valuables of the mansion, and having deposited them in the hole, the earth was replaced and carefully stamped, the surplus being carried some distance into the woods and scattered to the winds.

The task was not completed till well nigh dawn, and then there remained 16 bushels of wheat to be stowed away. The plans had been well laid, however, and the disposition of the grain was soon accomplished. The columns of the porches of the mansion were hollow and through a hole bored at the top the wheat was poured into the columns, the last place a searcher would expect to find it he sought.

Next morning a test of the thoroughness of the work was made when Mrs. Mitchener, who knew nothing of the location of the valuables, endeavored to find them. After a long search she gave it up as impossible, and then was given directions whereby the property might be found when the cruel war was over.

Not long after the northern troops came and a little later the battle of Bentonville, one of the last of the war, was fought, and Lieutenant Carter was surrendered with Johnson's forces.

For more than 30 years Lieutenant Carter, living at Atlanta, had heard no word of one of the principal actors in the incident, and did not even know whether the property had been recovered, although it frequently recurred to him when in a reminiscent mood. Last week he came to Asheville to visit his daughter, Mrs. Frank Carter. While here he met Dr. M. C. Millender, and in conversation he learned that the doctor had lived in Johnston county, and the story was related. Dr. Millender knew Mrs. Mitchener, and from him Lieutenant Carter was able to hear the first word he had heard of her since the days his detail protected her property. Here he first heard that Mrs. Mitchener found her valuables intact, the wheat having been recovered by drawing it through a hole bored at the base of the columns. Dr. Millender referred to A. L. Parker, a Montford avenue merchant, formerly a resident of Johnston county, who furnishes much additional information concerning Mrs. Mitchener. She was a Miss Secoy, daughter of Dr. Secoy, of New York State, and came South as a teacher at a time when it was common for wealthy families to employ tutors for their children. She was wood and won by Agrippa Mitchener, a wealthy old widower. He died, and the widow some years afterwards married Major Hastings, another elderly widower of considerable means. One child was born to them. Major Hastings lived only a few years, and his widow in due time married a third time, her husband being Poley Gardner, a young man. The couple are living at the old homestead, and Mrs. Gardner is said to retain, in spite of her years, much of the wondrous beauty that was hers when the young schoolma'am came South. Mr. Parker says she is one of the most intelligent women he ever knew.

Persons troubled with diarrhoea will be interested in the experience of Mr. W. M. Bush, clerk of Hotel Dorrance, Providence, R. I. He says: "For several years I have been almost a constant sufferer from diarrhoea, the frequent attacks completely prostrated me and rendering me unfit for my duties at this hotel. About two years ago a traveling salesman kindly gave me a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Much to my surprise and delight its effects were immediate. Whenever I felt symptoms of the disease I fortify myself against the attack with a few doses of this valuable remedy. The result has been very satisfactory and almost complete relief from the affliction." For sale by C. E. Holton.

A coal mine in Scotland which caught fire over fifty years ago and has been burning ever since has at last burnt itself out. The mine is on the Dalquharran estate, Dailly. It was set on fire by the engine which worked the fans, and although many costly attempts have been made to extinguish it they have been unsuccessful. The flames have from time to time burst forth from the ground in volcano fashion. The fire was confined to the one area by natural "dykes" of rock, which thus saved adjacent mines.

Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for consumption, coughs and colds. I cannot say enough for its merits." Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and today stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at C. E. Holton's drug store.

"I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for years and always with good results," says Mr. W. B. Cooper of El Rio, Cal. "For small children we find it especially effective." For sale by C. E. Holton.

Prior to the surrender of Santiago a New York broker wanted General Shafter to shell the city with rockets instead of by the use of guns. He has invented a rocket which will travel 1000 yards, carrying on the tail of the stick a pound of dynamite; and he proposed to send flights of these curious engines of destruction into the Spanish trenches. The inventor claims that his rockets are safe to handle and accurate in execution.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the liver and kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

HOT BLOOD IN CAMP.
ARMY QUARRELS THAT ALMOST ENDED IN TRAGEDIES.

The Story of a Captain Who Had Murder In His Heart—A Fiery Lieutenant Colonel Who Wanted to Kill His Superior Officer—A Peacemaking Adjutant.

"Tragedies in our own camps, outside of battles, were more common than the public knows," said a distinguished soldier.

"The shooting of Major General Nelson at Louisville by Brigadier General Jeff C. Davis because Nelson in a fit of anger had called Davis a long string of hard names, is one of the few that came to the surface. You wouldn't think it probably, but I myself was once so close to a tragedy that it makes my gray hair rise up as I recall it.

"While a number of officers of the regiment were in the major's tent I said something that a captain took exception to, and a war of words followed. When he plumped out, 'You are a liar!' I struck out with my right and set him to bleeding. He came back at me like a tiger cat. We clinched and for three or four minutes had it hot and sharp; then the others separated us. He made all sorts of threats. I was adjutant. He ranked me, and I confess that for a time I did fear he would make me trouble in the way of court martial, but the matter seemed to blow over.

"One fall afternoon the captain invited me to take a walk with him. Thinking that our troubles had completely healed, I consented. On the way back to camp we passed through an orchard. I climbed a tree to get some apples. Just as I reached for an apple I saw the captain reach for his revolver and glare at me like a very fiend. Instantly I loosened my hold and dropped to the ground. Seizing a stake, I took my place by his side and said, 'Now, you cowardly dog, put up that gun or I'll brain you.' This time he was kept on a hot grid for a month, though I made no threats and had no thought of reporting his attempt to assassinate me.

"The next night we got into we made up for good and all and remained fast friends until the final round up, when General Joe Johnston had his men throw down their guns and go home to 'make a crox.' It happened in this way: The colonel had given the order to form line of battle. As adjutant it was my duty to see that each captain carried out the order. When I reached the would be assassin and had performed my duty and started to go away, he called out, 'Adjutant, come back.' When I complied, he took my hand, looked me squarely in the eye and said: 'Lieutenant, can you forgive me for all of my meanness to you? I hope so. I have never had a good hour since that incident in the orchard.'

"With all my heart, captain. No one but you and myself knows anything about that little affair."

"As I said, nothing else came up to separate us while in the army. We never met after being mustered out. He died three years ago. Of course I could have sent him out of the army in disgrace and placed him in the penitentiary after he was out, but I've always been glad I did not. He was a good soldier in battle, as brave as they made them, but a bulldog in camp. He left the army a major. His name? Never mind that. It is a true story. I wish it were not, for I cannot forget that at one time in my life I was in a fair way to be murdered."

"Report to your headquarters under arrest, sir."

The colonel of a western regiment hissed that remark to his lieutenant colonel as he dismissed the parade one evening in December, 1864, a few miles back of Petersburg.

"I refuse to go, damn you," was the reply.

"Adjutant, see that Lieutenant Colonel Blank goes to his quarters at once," said the angry colonel, who was in the right, for the lieutenant colonel, who had been drinking, had disobeyed orders.

The adjutant knew both officers well, and that it would not do for them to come together that night. He had a merry time of it keeping them apart. The lieutenant colonel would jump up and start for the cabin door with a threat to go to the colonel's quarters and cut him down with his sword. He was a powerful man, able to carry out his threat unless the colonel should get the drop. Once the arrested officer got away and was half way to the colonel's cabin, with sword drawn. "Stop, man," said the adjutant. "Would you blot your record of three years by committing murder? Think of that. Think of your wife and children. Come back to your quarters. You shall not go a step farther in that direction until you have killed me."

"I don't want to kill you, but I'm going to kill the colonel."

"All right, kill him, but wait until tomorrow—until it is light. Don't shoot a man in the dark. That is no way for a brave man to do."

He went back to his bunk and slept until morning. When he awoke, he came to me and said:

"How can I get out of this scrape, adjutant?"

"Write the colonel an apology."

He wrote it, and the adjutant took it to the colonel, who read it, laughed and said, "Bring Colonel Blank to my quarters." They met like a pair of brothers, and to this day the adjutant believes that he prevented an army tragedy, and I guess he did.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Blood Brains Money
A sick man can't make money. That's because his brain won't work. A horse won't do work unless he is properly fed. Neither will a brain. If the brain is not kept in good condition with pure, rich blood, it won't produce much.
Men who fail, and men who don't, often have what they call "Nervous Prostration." Nine times in ten the nervous trouble is purely secondary. The real sickness is in their digestion and in their blood. If a man keeps his digestion in good order, and keeps his body full of pure, rich blood, he is never going to be very sick.
Johnston's Sarsaparilla is made for people who want to get well and stay well. Sarsaparilla is a simple, "grandmother" remedy, but it cures. It purifies and enriches the blood and sends it tingling to every part of the body. That is the way it cures all ailments of the brain and nerves—cures insomnia—cures dyspepsia, rheumatism, scrofula, and every other blood disease. It clears the complexion, plumps out the cheeks, and brings back the sparkle to lifeless eyes.

NO OVERTURES FOR PEACE

Have Been Made by Spain to Our Government.

Washington, July 15—"There have been no overtures for peace received by any United States Embassy or legation abroad or by the department of state at Washington." That was the statement made by a member of the cabinet who is thoroughly familiar with the conditions as they exist today, and was called forth by various reports that ranged all the way from an announcement that the basis for a treaty of peace already had been reached, to the more guarded declaration that the Spanish government had conveyed in an unofficial manner to the United States government an intimation of some of the concessions it was prepared to make to secure peace.

The prospects for the speedy institution of peace negotiations have brightened decidedly since the collapse of the Spanish resistance at Santiago.

President McKinley gave expression to a strong hope for an early peace. Responding to congratulations on the success of the Santiago campaign he said: "I hope for early peace now."

Some idea of the extent to which Sebastopol was fired upon by the allied armies and fleets may be obtained from the statement that from a tax of six pence per hundredweight which the Russian government levied upon the proceeds of the sales of old iron, shot and shell picked up by the people a sum of nearly $15,000 was realized.

Our baby has been continually troubled with colic and cholera infantum since his birth, and all that we could do for him did not seem to give more than temporary relief, until we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Since giving that remedy he has not been troubled. We want to give you this testimonial as an evidence of our gratitude, not that you need it to advertise your meritorious remedy.—G. M. Law, Keokuk Iowa. For sale by C. E. Holton.

The Jewish community of London has sent to Baron Rothschild a check for $19,298, which is to be applied to the cost of the construction of a new wing recently added to the Jews' Free School. The check was in reality a gift to the Baron, as he had enlarged the school building with the intention of paying for the improvement out of his own pocket.

Blood Brains Money
A sick man can't make money. That's because his brain won't work. A horse won't do work unless he is properly fed. Neither will a brain. If the brain is not kept in good condition with pure, rich blood, it won't produce much.
Men who fail, and men who don't, often have what they call "Nervous Prostration." Nine times in ten the nervous trouble is purely secondary. The real sickness is in their digestion and in their blood. If a man keeps his digestion in good order, and keeps his body full of pure, rich blood, he is never going to be very sick.
Johnston's Sarsaparilla is made for people who want to get well and stay well. Sarsaparilla is a simple, "grandmother" remedy, but it cures. It purifies and enriches the blood and sends it tingling to every part of the body. That is the way it cures all ailments of the brain and nerves—cures insomnia—cures dyspepsia, rheumatism, scrofula, and every other blood disease. It clears the complexion, plumps out the cheeks, and brings back the sparkle to lifeless eyes.
One Dollar is the price, and One thousand Dollars is the health-giving value of every Quart Bottle of Sarsaparilla.
